

Below is a list of railway and highway projects China has approved or planned to accelerate.

DATE ANNOUNCED	LOCATION	PROJECT	DETAILS
9-Aug	Hubei	Railway	The central province plans to launch three to four railway links every year in the next three years
10-Aug	Guizhou	High-speed	The southwestern province plans a railway high-speed railway to link all of its cities with its capital of Guiyang.
11-Aug	Tibet	Railway	Tibet's accelerated railway plans include the Sichuan-Tibet project in the next five years. The 1,700 km line connecting Lhasa and Chengdu will traverse mountains and gorges, and cost about 250 billion yuan.
14-Aug	Suzhou	Urban railway	The eastern city plans four new subway lines by 2023. The 137-km project will cost 95 billion yuan.
28-Aug	Shenzhen	Urban railway	The southern city will have 33 subway lines operating on 1,335 km of track by 2035. That is nearly five times the scale of Shenzhen's subway lines.
17-Oct	Shanghai/Su	High-speed	The 36.8 billion yuan railway project zhou/Huzhou railway will start in Shanghai and run through Suzhou city in Jiangsu province to Huzhou city in Zhejiang province.
30-Oct	Chongqing	High-speed	The 53.5 billion yuan, 265-km railway railway project will be built in Chongqing city, part of a network to connect Chongqing with the southern city of Xiamen.
9-Dec	Henan	Highway	The central province of Henan plans to spend 108.6 billion yuan on 14 highway projects next year that will cover an estimated 1002 km.
19-Dec	Hangzhou	Urban railway	The eastern city of Hangzhou received a greenlight to spend another

			14 billion yuan on two existing urban railway projects, raising the total investment to 53.54 billion yuan. The city also plans a new airport express line.
19-Dec	Shanghai	Urban railway	Shanghai will build six more subway lines and three inter-city railways for a total investment of 298.35 billion yuan. The city's transportation network will span 1154 km in five years.
21-Dec	Guangxi	Inter-city	The southern region of Guangxi received railway a greenlight to build two inter-city railway lines worth 51.7 billion yuan, spanning 325 km when completed.
25-Dec	Shaanxi	High-speed	The National Development and Reform railway Commission approved a 55.16 billion yuan high-speed railway project linking Shaanxi's provincial capital Xian with Yanan, a region of about 2 million north of the city. The project is expected to be completed in 4.5 years.
28-Dec	Changchun	Urban railway	The state planner approved 71.14 billion yuan for 116 km of urban railway projects in the northeastern city.
2-Jan	Jiangsu	Inter-city	The state planner approved a new railway inter-city railway network worth 218 billion yuan in the eastern province of Jiangsu. The railway tracks will span 980 km when completed in 2025.
4-Jan	Wuhan	Urban railway	The state planner approved 146.9 billion yuan of urban railway projects in the central city of Wuhan with a total length of 198.4 km.
25-April	Zhengzhou	Urban railway	The state planner approved urban railway projects worth a total of 113.89 billion yuan in Zhengzhou city, the capital

			of central Henan province. The projects that include six new subway lines are expected to span 326.54 km when completed by 2024.
--	--	--	--